Mr. Parsons stated that he had been at Dave's Sport Grill and CBC East the previous night and had a lot to drink, so he could not remember where he had placed his phone. Mr. Parsons also stated that he had bought a new phone and tracked his previous phone to EZ Pawn at 5712 Lee Highway. Mr. Parsons also stated that he did not have any serial number recorded for the iPhone 11 and had thrown away the box for the phone, which would have contained the serial number.

We contacted EZ Pawn and they reported that morning they had received a phone matching that description, so we contacted Mr Parsons again and we agreed to meet at EZ Pawn.

In EZ Pawn, an employee brought out the phone matching the description, but the phone was reset. Mr. Parsons had already transferred his phone number to the new phone he had bought, so the pawn shop's iPhone would no longer work with his previous number. Also due to the reset of the pawn shop's iPhone, Mr. Parsons was not able to access the phone and provide police with proof of ownership through pictures or other identifiers on the phone.

Mr. Parsons was given a complaint card and he stated he would contact the business from which he had originally bought the phone in order to obtain a serial number. Nothing further to report.
